

Last call for Nominations 2010

World Cultural Council Awards

Deadline February 26, 2010

The World Cultural Council (WCC) is an international organization, based in Mexico, whose objectives are to promote culture, values and goodwill throughout the world. One of the means by which it strives to do so is by granting the Albert Einstein World Award of Science, the José Vasconcelos World Award of Education and the Leonardo da Vinci World Award of Arts to outstanding personalities whose work has had a significantly positive impact on the cultural legacy of mankind. The members of the Council include several Nobel laureates.

One of the Council's most important aims is to establish and further relationships with and among prestigious scientific, educational and cultural institutions worldwide. To this end, the Award Ceremony is held every year in different universities and countries as a way of reaching different communities of lecturers, researchers and students. It rewards scientific research which brings progress to mankind; recognizes and promotes art in all its expressions; and distinguishes progress in the field of education.

The Albert Einstein World Award of Science was created as a means of recognition, and as an incentive to scientific and technological research and development. It takes into special consideration research which has brought true benefit and wellbeing to mankind. It is awarded annually.
